

Inline Policy – Policy Analyst, Brussels

Inline Policy is a growing political and regulatory consultancy where you will find exciting clients and an ambitious and unique passion for tech and digital policies affecting companies around the world. If you would like to engage with stakeholders in business and politics, can provide insightful advice on political and regulatory issues, and strive to provide the highest quality in client service, then come and join our team!

In this role, based in our Brussels office, you will be working with clients focused on EU institutional affairs.

DAY TO DAY RESPONSIBILITIES

Our Policy Analysts are responsible for:

- Supporting the delivery of client projects and maintaining client relationships
- Researching and analysing policy issues
- Producing written briefings on political and regulatory issues
- Attending and reporting on conferences and webinars and meetings with EU decision-makers
- Assisting with presentations and marketing content, including white papers and blogs
- Producing newsletters for clients on regulatory and market developments

Additionally, you will be expected to contribute to:

- Creating and executing public-affairs programmes
- Designing and delivering innovative services
- Developing new business, including through marketing ideas or other initiatives

YOU WILL BENEFIT FROM

- Gross monthly salary of 3K EUR
- 24 days of holiday per year (increasing with service), plus national holidays
- A hybrid work model
- Meal vouchers and Ecochecks
- Contributions towards your 'mutualité' health insurance
- Staff training opportunities
- Regular work socials

ABOUT INLINE

Inline is a pioneering consultancy specialising in helping tech businesses engage with regulators and policymakers. We work with leading tech brands and successful scale-ups to help them influence regulatory decisions affecting their business, reputation and customers.

We believe technological innovation can be a force for good, and we are passionate about the tech policies changing our economies and societies. Our team covers exciting areas and sectors, including:

- AI and robotics
- Online platforms
- Digital competition
- Clean tech
- Travel tech
- Crypto
- The data economy
- The future of mobility
- E-commerce
- Cybersecurity
- Copyright

We maintain a friendly working environment, where all staff feel engaged, respected, and valued.

WHO SHOULD APPLY

Applicants for the Policy Analyst position should possess the following:

- A strong interest in EU tech regulation and policy
- Demonstrable knowledge of EU digital/tech policy and EU decision-making
- An excellent academic record, to at least master's-degree level
- Superior written and oral English communication skills
- The ability to multi-task and manage multiple deadlines, often at short notice
- Advanced ability with Microsoft Office applications (particularly Word and PowerPoint)
- A commitment to consistently produce work of the highest quality
- Integrity, honesty and a willingness to work hard and sometimes demanding hours
- Eligibility to live and work in Belgium

The following characteristics, while not essential, will also be favourably considered:

- Public-affairs experience
- Strong network connections in the EU political and regulatory community
- The ability to build relationships with current and prospective clients
- A creative flair, in particular an ability to present information in a visually appealing manner for clients
- European language skills in addition to English

All candidates should be willing to work in a small and dynamic team environment.

NEXT STEPS

Applicants should respond via email only to careers@inlinepolicy.com with their CV and a covering letter describing their motivation and suitability for the role.

Application deadline Friday, 26 June 2026. Successful candidates will be contacted from first week of July for assessments and interviews.

References will be requested.